This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

In 1851, Erastus Bostwick, of Hinesburgh, Vt., published a small pamphlet of fifty pages entitled "A Genealogical Register of the Name of Bostwick".

While this small book was prepared with a great deal of care, it was very incomplete in many ways, and some years ago I was prompted by a desire to see the history of our family put in such shape, as to place before the descendants of our emigrant ancestor, records of the early generations which might prove of value and interest to those now bearing the name of Bostwick or their descendants.

To that end, I have, during the past eight years, collected such records as it was possible to obtain, and the result is to be found in the pages of this book.

I do not claim that this work contains the name of every descendant of our earliest ancestor, but, as far as it has been possible to obtain them, it contains the names of all persons positively identified with the original line of descent.

To a considerable degree, the descendants in the female lines are also to be found, and these have been made as complete as possible, without devoting too much time to them.

I have had the usual experience of all genealogists in encountering several classes of persons, in preparing this work.

One class consists of those who seem to think that the compilation of this book has been done for the sole purpose of making money out of others.

Another class is composed of those who have been "pleased that such a work has been undertaken," &c., &c., but who have failed utterly to respond to any request for subscriptions.

But what has been most aggravating, is, that there has been a number of persons who allowed themselves to be addressed again and again, and made no response or acknowledgement of the correspondence sent them. There have been, unfortunately, many such exhibitions of ungraciousness and poor manners, and many of these persons have been known to have in their possession some excellent records of their families.

I should like to print in full a list of those who have had neither the courtesy nor the decency to reply to letter after letter. Where such instances have left the record of an individual incomplete, I have marked the name with an "R", showing that either the person, or his or her descendant, has refused to send me the information desired.

These persons will be the first to point out errors and omissions, and will be the loudest in their efforts to ridicule the work and its author.

Those persons who have freely given their help, know and thoroughly appreciate the difficulties in undertaking a work of this kind. To all those who have so willingly assisted me, I extend my most hearty thanks.

It has been my aim to make a full and perfect record, but it is doubtful if it could be made so, and I do not expect that it will be found to be such.

No doubt there are many errors and omissions, but to avoid them would be an impossibility. In the spelling of proper names, they are given as sent to me, and doubtless many errors will appear from my not being able to decipher various handwritings.

In some cases apparent errors in dates may be found, but they are due to several causes; by the difference between the old and new styles of beginning the year; by different dates appearing on the same town or church records; and by different dates being given by different members of the same family, in which case the most probable date is used.

In this work all dates of the month previous to Sept. 14, 1752, are old style, and all after are new style. The year between Jan. 1st and March 25th (before the adoption of the new style) is uniformly treated, where a double date is not given, as new style.

The explanation of the cause of difference in style is as follows:

When the computation by the Christian era was introduced, the commencement of the year was on the Day of the Incarnation of Christ, which event was fixed as happening on March 25th.

This continued to be the commencement of the year in England and her colonies until the change in the style in 1752, when, by act of Parliament, it was ordered that eleven days should be struck out of the month of September; that the 3d should be the 14th; that a day should be added to the month of February, every fourth year, to conform to the chronology of the other nations, which had introduced a similar change previously, in order to correct the error arising from the precession of the equinoxes; and that the year should commence with the 1st of January instead of with the 25th of March.

Before that time, to preserve a correspondence of dates with those of other nations, it had been usual to give a double date from the 1st of January to the 25th of March; thus, Jan. 19th, 1732, would be written Jan. 19, 17$\frac{3}{4}\frac{1}{4}$. The omission of the lower number would cause an error of a year earlier than the true date.

If any one discovers any error or omission in this work, I will be greatly obliged if the same be communicated to me immediately, as I intend keeping a book specially for this purpose.

In the following pages the names of all descendants are given consecutive numbers.

The + suffixed to a number indicates that the record of the person is continued and will be found under the number printed in heavy faced type.

There have been a number of families which could not be traced back to and connected with the early generations. These are not to be found in the body of the book, but where an unidentified branch has been large enough to warrant doing so, it has been given a place in the appendix.

I hope that all will take as much pleasure in reading this book as I did in compiling it.

HOW TO TRACE A LINE OF DESCENT.

Find in the proper part of the index the name wanted. Against this name will be a number, which will be found in its proper sequence on the left hand side of each page. Having found this number, look for the number in heavy faced type in front of the name of the head of the family. Turn back until this number is found in its proper sequence on the left hand side of the page. By continuing this method, the line of descent can be easily traced.

THE COAT OF ARMS.

ARMS: Sable; a fesse humettée, argent.

CREST: On the stump of a tree, eradicated, argent; a bear's head, erased, sable, muzzled, or.

MOTTO: Semper Presto Servire.
"Always ready to serve."

The field, shield or escutcheon is black (sable). In Bary's "Plates of Coat Armor" the "Bostock Arms" are given with two different shields, but the shape is not material.

A "fesse", (French fascé), is one of the nine ordinaries of Heraldry, and is formed by two horizontal lines drawn across the field, and, according to the opinion of most writers, should contain one-third part of the escutcheon.

The fesse is supposed to represent the military belt; by some termed the "Cingulam Honoris", or "girdle of honor".

A "fesse humet" or "humettée", is a fesse whose ends do not reach to the side extremities of the escutcheon, but a "fesse humettée" should also show the thickness.

Guillim, one of the authorities of Heraldry, is of the opinion that a "fesse humettée" is more properly called a "table"; others call it a "gravestone". All "charges", in coat-armor, have some significance; either representing trade or profession, some incident or accident.

The word "eradicated", in heraldry, means "torn up by the roots", and "erased" means "torn off leaving jagged edges".

The generally believed opinion is that the Crusades were coeval with, if indeed they were not the true cause of the birth of Heraldry, its laws and emblems.

The right to bear arms and to use Coat Armor was granted for many reasons. Undoubtedly heraldic devices were first used by military lords and chiefs, on their own part, to distinguish their own bodies of retainers and men-at-arms, and they, in their turn, bestowed upon their brave and deserving followers, those insignia and marks which became the Coat-Armor of the owners.

In the course of time, these various insignia naturally began to multiply and increase in numbers, and, in order to prevent any confusion arising in regard to the proper ownership, it became necessary, in the fourteenth century, to establish a record of all coat-armor, and the "Heralds' College" was instituted, probably during the reign of Henry V., but the "College of Arms" was not established until during the reign of Richard III., in 1484.

Messengers, known as "Heralds", were sent into the various counties and shires, and all persons were practically compelled to register their pedigrees and coat-armor, and the results of these searches are known as the "Heralds' Visitations", and are on record in the British Museum. Coat-Armor, in many cases, has a special significance and history. It was granted often for special acts of bravery, great loyalty, or for some high office held, and the Arms were intended to commemorate.

*THE FAMILY NAME.

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."
—Proverbs XXII, 1.

The surname of Bostwick is of Saxon origin and is traceable to the time of Edward the Confessor, who preceeded Harold, the last of the Saxon Kings, upon the throne of England. Like all ancient names, it has undergone some mutations in over seven centuries, and has even been materially changed since the time when Arthur Bostock first transplanted it into the wilderness of America. Why names are changed will be left to antiquarians to discuss.

That the name was Bostock at the time of the emigation to America there is proof in the fact that it is so written on the town records of Stratford, Ct., in deeds and documents pertaining to the first generations, and from the early records of the town of Southampton, L. I., (N. Y.), as early as 1643.

It is true these writings are but copies, written by clerks, who were not, in all instances, best qualified for the position they held, but it is probable that the signatures of persons were copied as they were written by the individuals themselves. It is also positively known that the family came from Cheshire County, England, where the name of Bostock has existed for centuries, but there is no Bostwick to be found there. In the second generation in this country the name is usually written Bostick, or Bosticke, and it is not until the third generation that the full fledged Bostwick is found.

It is very easy to imagine how Bostick took the place of Bostock, in an age when very little attention was paid to orthography, and names were usually spelled as they were pronounced ; but it is more difficult to conceive how the W finally crept in, and became so firmly rooted as to be unanimously acknowledged and adopted by all branches of the family.

Among some of the older members of the family, the name is still pronounced Bostick, although spelled Bostwick. There are a number of persons throughout the United States who bear the name of Bostic and Bostick, but their descent cannot be traced back to Arthur Bostock, of Stratford.

The present English name is Bostock, which, according to Camden, was Botestock, and was derived from the manor of the same name, situated on the River Dan, in Cheshire.

Camden, (Camden's "Brittanica," Vol. III, p. 44, ed. of 1806), in speaking of Middlewich, says: "Whence the Dan runs by Bostocke, antiently Botestoc, the antient seat of the famous and knightly family of the Bostokes, which by marriage with Anne, the only daughter of Ralph, son and heir of Sir Adam de Bostock, Knight, came, together with a fine estate, to John Savage. From this antient family of the Bostocks, as from a fruitful stock, issued a numerous race of the same name, which spread themselves in the counties of Chester, Berks, Salop and elsewhere".

Botestock is compounded of two Saxon words : Bote, (Latin compensatio), is a term used in old English law signifying "recompende", compensation, satisfaction or amends ; hence, in the old Saxon law, when the punishment of all crimes was reduced to a money valuation, man-bote was a compensation or equivalent for a man slain. Plough-bote was the right which a tenant possessed of taking from the forest sufficient to mend his plough when broken, that is, enough to recompense him for the loss suffered. Stock, Saxon "stoc", is equivalent to the Latin "stirps" or "truncus", a root or trunk. Hence figuratively speaking, a race or family, and finally, origin or place from which a family or race sprung.

Botestock, therefore, means a place given in compensation or as a recompense for some thing.

The English Boteville, or Botefield, is nearly an equivalent.

The name was written Botestoch in the great Domesday Book, compiled by order of William the Conqueror, and it is not until long after his time that it is found spelled Bostock, as it is now written in England.

Family names among the early Saxons and Anglo-Saxons, were derived from trades, professions, names of places ; from acts and deeds performed, and from terminal affixes of parental designations.

THE FAMILY IN ENGLAND.

"A people that takes no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors, will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants."

—LORD MACAULEY.

In the Domesday Book, in the part relating to Cheshire (Chester) County, is found the following :

Isd Ri teñ Botestoch, Osmer tenuit.
Ibi I hida geld, Tra ē II car.
Ibi sunt cū III radman 7 II seruis.
7 II ac pti 7 II ac siluae T. R. E. ualb III sol modo X sol wast inuen.

or in readable Latin,

"Isdem Ricardus (de Vernon) tenet Botestoch,
Osmer tenuit, ibi una hida geldabilis
Terra est II carucartae, ibi sunt cum
III radman et II servis et II acrae prati et II acrae silvae,
Tempore R. Edwardi valebat III solidos, modo
X solidos, wastam invenitur".

Which translated reads :

"The same Richard holds Botestoch. Osmer held it. There *one hide paid geld. There is land for two ploughs. They are there with three radmanni and two servants and two acres of meadow and two acres of woods. In the time of King Edward it was worth †three shillings, now ten shillings. He found it waste land."

Richard de Vernon, at the time of the survey for the Domesday Book, was proprietor of Ashton, near Tarvin, Picton, Hooton, Cogshull, Shipbrook, Shurlach, Lefturch, Moulton, Warton, near Over, Davenham, Bostoch, Audlem, Crewe, Shavington and Bradbury, all in the barony of Shipbrook.

The township of Shipbrook is situated on the right bank of the river Weever, opposite to the township of Davenham. The military strength of the position probably induced the Norman lords of Shipbrook to select it for their residence, and the site of their fortress is still indicated by the name of Castle Hill, attached to an elevation between Shipbrook Bridge and Shipbrook Hill Farm. The remains of this early stronghold are said to have actually existed on this spot as late as 1850.

*The hide is generally supposed to be equal to 120 acres.
†Money is estimated 30 times its present value.

The ancient lords of this place derive their name from the town of Vernon, in Normandy, in which William de Vernon founded and endowed, in 1052, A. D., a collegiate and parochial church for a dean and secular canons.

In the castle of this place, Randle Gernons, fourth earl of Chester, was born, and assumed from it his local appellation.

Osmer, the Saxon proprietor, was lord of Shipbrook and of several other townships in the time of Edward the Confessor.

The English pedigrees deduce the line of the Bostocks from him and state that his fifth descendent, Sir Warin de Bostock, married Hawise, countess of Lincoln in her own right, widow of Roger de Quenci and daughter of Hugh Keveliock, Earl of Chester.

Dr. Williamson, an eminent English scholar, says: "We may be assured by inquisition, 2 Henry II. (1156) "y^t Warine de Bostock, 2d husband of Hawise, daughter of Hugh Kyvelyoc, Earl of Chester, was ye son of Randle, son of Adam de Bostock."

On what authority this marriage is stated, is not known, but it is certain that Hawise de Quenci had a grant of the earldom of Lincoln from her brother, as late as 17 Henry III. (1233), being then widow of Roger de Quenci.

The descent of Warine, as given by Williamson, differs from the pedigree of Booth, which makes him son of William, son of Gilbert, son of Roger, son of Richard, son of Hugh Fitz Richard, son of Osmer.

This is also the pedigree as given in the Harleian Manuscripts in the British Museum.

In the beginning of Henry III. (viz: temp. Philip de Orreby, 1209–1229), William, grandson of Warin de Bostock, acknowledged in a full county court, that he held his land from Warin de Vernon, baron of Shipbrook, "by ploughing and shearing his lords demesne lands," a record of villenage tenure that seems to give some color to the statement of the descent of the family from Osmer the Saxon.

44 Henry III. (1260), Philip de Bostock and Amice, daughter of William de Bostock, occur, (with Gervase de Medio Wico, the Abbot of Basingwerk, and the prioress and convent of the nuns of Chester, and others), in a suit for dower of lands in Roucristelton, brought by Margery, widow of William, son of Walter. (Plea Rolls).

54 Henry III. (1270), The lord Philip de Bostoc occurs as son (and apparently heir) of William, as a witness to a grant by Alice, widow of Richard de Hellesby, to Hugh de Bostoc, of 2 s. annual rent, in Bridgestrete, Chester, to hold the said Hugh, his heirs, begotten of Hawise, his wife, daughter of the said Alice.

Test. Petro de Thornton.
Joceramo fratre dūis Philipo filio Willo de Bostoc.
Harl. Mss. 2079, fo. 27.

33 Edward I. (1305), Amice, widow of William de Bostok, sued John de Arcled for dower. (Plea Rolls).

This Philip de Bostoc or Joceram de Bostoc, his brother, was probably heir of William, grandson of Warin, and ancestor of the family.

Booth's pedigree, as well as one drawn by Laurence Bostock, (Harl. Mss. 2059, fo. 259), are untrustworthy, and by a liberal computation, the number of generations down to the death of Adam, 46 Edw. III. (1373), admits of one more easily, in the person of another Adam, presumed son of Philip and grandfather of the last named, viz: VII. Adam de Bostok, who may be reckoned seventh in descent from Adam de Bostok, the first reputed ancestor.

He was appointed as one of the King's purveyors in Northwich Hundred, 3 Edw. II. (1310), and also occurs in the account of Wharton, 15 Edw. II. (1322). With John de Warde, Randal de Merton, and others, he is mentioned as mainprise for Richard de Waryhull, 2 Edw. III. (1328).

7 Edw. III. (1333). By an inquisition "ad quod damnum", it was found that "it was not to the damage of the Earl, &c., that Adam de Bostok should close a highway, 40 perches in length and 40 feet in width, in Bostok, leading from Balshagh towards Middlewich, the said Adam constructing other ways in lieu thereof." (Plea Rolls.)

He enters into a recognizance with Ric-fitz John de Croxton, to ——— Werberton, in 100 s., 8 Edw. III. (1334), also with William de Braxton, Jun., in a recognizance to John de Wrenneberg, 15 Edw. III. (1341). Adam de Bostock seems to have died between 15 and 23 Edw. III. (1341–1349), on which latter date his widow, Matild de Bostok, sued John de St. Pierre for a dower of 4 messuages and 60 acres in Bostock. (Plea Rolls).

He does not occur as Knight in any of these rolls, it not being customary, (except in certain cases), till a late period to invariably give the title, but it is also quite possible that he was Knighted some little time before his death.

VIII. William de Bostok and Joan, his wife, formerly wife of Thomas Danyers, sued Helewise, prioress of the Chester nuns, 29 Edw. III. (1355), for dower in Marleston.

In 36 Edw. III. (1362), he occurs as William de Bostok, senior, in his appointment as seneschal of the lordship of Frodesham, and 37 Edw. III. (1363), with David de Bostok, and Ric. le Bret, of Davenham, he entered into a recognizance to the Earl in 20 marks, part of a fine of £40, made with the said Earl by Randal le Roter. He was, perhaps, the same person who occurs in 39 Edw. III. (1365), in a recognizance in 20 marks to John de Heuxteworth. (Recog. Rolls).

He acquired lands in Bradewell, 45 Edw. III. (1371). Joan is mentioned as his widow, 10 Rich. II. (1387), in a suit for dower which she brought for lands in Wymbaleslegh. She appears to have been his second wife and is called Joan Norreys, widow of Sir Thomas Danyers, who died 28 Edw. III. (1354), by Leycester, in his account of Clifton.

He appears to have had by his first wife, the heiress of Moulton, a son.

IX. Adam de Bostok, who was probably brother to William and David de Bostok, mentioned in the next inquisition. William occurs 10 Rich. II. (1387) in a license granted to Hamo de Bostok and Robert le Roter, to act as the attorneys of the said William in the chancery of Ireland, "he being about to stay in England".

This Adam appears to have died young, a very few years after his wife Margaret, daughter of John de Wetenhale, who died before 43 Edw. III. (1369). The series of inquisitions formerly in the exchequer of Chester, but now in the Record Office, London, commence with this Adam de Bostok, presumed great-great grandson of the William of 1209–1229 A. D.

Inquisition 47 Edw. III. (1373).

Adam de Bostok held one messuage and one carucate of land in little Stanthurle, (Val. 46s. 8d.) and finding "that he granted the manor of Bostok to Walter Dammary, parson of the church of Davenham, and William le Mynor, vicar of the church of Wev'hâm, to the intent that they should enfeoff Adam, son of the same Adam, when he attained the age of 24 years, in tail, with successive remainders in tail, to William de Bostok and David de Bostok, with final remainders to the right heirs of the said Adam, son of Adam, that the said charter was made by Colluston; that the said manor was held from the heirs of John de St. Pierre, by military service", val. p. a. XX marks.

[Obiit die Venis in scdā septia q̈dragesime anno 46.]

Adam de Bostok, son and heir, aged eight years.

A fresh inquisition, set forth in an enrolled writ of Ouster le Maine, returned "that Adam de Bostok, on the day he died, held the manor in his demesne of Walter de Cokeseye, Knt., and that Adam his son and heir was aged 20". (Recog. Rolls, 10 & 11 Rich. II. 1387 & 1388).

X. This Adam de Bostock became heir to his maternal uncles, as stated in the account of Wettenhall, and attained his majority as shown in the subjoined proof of age.

Prob. etat, 9 Rich. II. (1386).

"Adam, filius et heres Ade de Bostok, appeared with * * * * who say upon their oathes that Adam "filius et heres Ade de Bostok", was born at Bostok, 37 Edw. III. (1363), and was baptized in the church at Davenham, and so is "aged xxj ann".

"And this they well knew. And whereas Rāns de Legh, one of the jurors aforesd, says that the before mentioned Adam, son of Adam, was of the age of 8 years at the time upon which our Lord Edward, late Prince of Wales, granted the wardship of the lands of the same heir and the marriage of his body to William de Legh, chivaler, and afterwards, the same heir lived in company of the said Randel for 8 years following, by the assignment of the said William, who at the end of 8 years granted the wardship and marriage aforesd to Henry de Bradeshagh, since which 5 years have elapsed".

He occurs 17 Rich. II. (1394), in an enrolled writ "ad quod damnum", touching the enclosure by him and Richard de Manley, of waste land in the forest of Mondrem.

A feud between him and Stephen, Abbot of Vale Royal, affords further evidence of his identity, 18 Rich II. (1395), when they were both bound over in £200 each, twice this year, to keep the peace; Sir Ralph de Vernon and David de Bostok being among Adam's sureties. Whether this David was brother, uncle or cousin to Adam, it is difficult to determine, but he occurs also five years later on.

The Bostoks were closely connected with Vale Royal, where several members of the family were monks.

Adam de Bostok was retained by King Richard for life, and received an annuity of 100 s. as by Recog. Rolls, 21 and 22 Rich. II. (1397–1398).

The King appears to have been preparing for war, perhaps in Ireland, and an extraordinary number of unidentified members of the Bostok family occur in the same year, from Dec.–Jan. 21 Rich. II. (1397), in appointments, very popular in the county, chiefly among younger sons and other gentry, as archers of the livery of the Crown, a post which seems to have been of honor and value.

Thomas, son of John de Bostok; Thomas, son of William de Bostok; Thomas, son of Adam de Bostok; John, son of David de Bostok; William de Bostock; John de Bostok; David de Bostok, were all appointed, with 6d. a day each, for life, a sum equal to the revenues of some manors. One of these Davids was grantee of an annuity of 100 s. for life, same year, as was likewise Richard de Bostok, Armiger, 22 Rich. II. (1398).

David, son of David de Bostok, had the King's letters of protection on his departure for Ireland on the King's service, June 8, 23 Rich. II. (1399), when Thomas le Bret and others were appointed his attorneys.

Adam de Bostok further occurs 21 Rich. II. (1397), as surety for John de Davenham, canon of Vale Royal, keeping the peace.

In 22 Rich. II. (1398), with William de Roter, Hugh de Bostok, and John, son of William de Dyesworth, he entered into a recognizance in £146, 13s. 6d. to Margaret, widow of John de Grendon.

On Henry the Fourth's accession to the throne, Adam de Bostok appears to have distinguished himself by his loyalty to his oath of allegiance, and remained to the last, like most Cheshiremen, a steadfast supporter of Richard II.

Being mixed up in Percy's Rebellion, and according to the pedigrees, one of those who fought at the battle of Shrewsbury, a writ to the escheator, Oct. 7, 4 Hen. IV. (1403), commands the seizure of his lands as those of a rebel, and to make inquest as to their value.

This was most likely not pursued further, as he occurs in January following, in a commission of array with Sir William Brereton and others; and 7 Hen. IV. (1406), was commissioned also for the Northwich Hundred to conduct men-at-arms to the Marches of Wales, in Broxon Hundred, for defense against the Welsh.

He occurs lastly, with Henry de Ravenscroft and John Bovell, as attorney for John de Kyngsley, during his absence from the country, Nov., 10 Hen. IV. (1409), and his "writ de diem" was issued Mch. 28, 2 Hen. V. (1414).

Inq. p. m. 2 Hen. V. (1414).

"Adam de Bostok held in his demesne as of fee, the manor of Bos-tok, cum. pert. from Hugh, son and heir of Walter de Cokeseye [then under age and in the King's wardship], in capite by military service. Valebat per annum £XX, also the manor of Huxley, half the manor of Tatenhall, Neuton, juxta Tatenhall, Rocristleton. [Tetlon], Eccleston, and Monkes, Copenhall. [Tot. val. gr. ann. £63, 3s. 2d. Obiit die lune in festo Sci Gregory Pape ult. (Radulphus or) Ralph de Bostok, son and heir, aged 23 years and upwards]."

XI. Sir Ralph de Bostok had but a short tenure of the manor and probably died, after seeing much service in the French wars, in the 28th year of his age.

As Ralph de Bostok, Armiger, of Bostok, he had letters of protection, July 17, 3 Hen. V. (1415), on his going abroad in the retinue of the King, (Recog. and Plea Rolls), and was probably Knighted in France.

He occurs as Knight, Apr. 5, 4 Hen. V. (1416), in a commission with Sir William Brereton and others, as collector of part of a subsidy of 3000 marks in Northwich Hundred.

In July 9, following, Sir Ralph de Bostock, Knt., had further letters of protection, "being about to put to sea in the retinue of the King".

He finally occurs as grantee of fresh letters of protection, dated Apr. 4, 6 Hen. V. (1418), "on his going to France on the King's service, in the retinue of Thomas, Duke of Exeter." (Plea and Recog. Rolls). On this occasion he granted a power of attorney to John Huxley, David de Bostok and others, to act for him during his absence. He appears to have died a few months afterwards, when the following inquisition was taken:

Inq. p. m. 6 Hen. V. (1418).

"Ralph de Bostok [Knt. called Ranulphus de Bostok], chivaler, held [the manor of Bostok in fee and] lands, in [Socage not] capite, in Occleston, Calvylegh, [Alsager, Multon] and Tetlon, [also two messuages and 80 acres in Chirchelauton, as of the right of Isabel, late wife of the said Ranulph de Bostok and filia et heredie Will. de Lawton de Wyglonde] and half the manor of Wetenhale. Val. Tot. £XIII. VI s. VIII d. [Obiit 22 Jan ult (1418)]. Adam de Bostok, son and heir, aged 17 annor".

By a subsequent Inq. ex. off. dated 11 Hen. VI. (1433), it was returned that Ra[d]ulphus de Bostok, chivaler, by his inq. of 6 Hen. V. (1418), was found to have died seized as aforesaid, and that his possessions had been in the late King's wardship, by reason of Adam, the heir's minority, and who granted the same wardship to his dear esquire John de Kyngesley, during the non-age of the said Adam, together with his marriage; and it was also returned that the said Adam was of the full age of 21 years "die mercurie px̄ ante festum Scī Michīs Archī", 9 Hen. VI. (1431), which varies slightly from the following :—

Probatio Aetatis, 11 Hen. VI. (1433), Ade de Bostock, fil et heredis Radī de Bostok, Chivaler, who was a tenant in capite, by Knight's service, of our Lord Henry, late King of England, father of our Lord, the present King, taken at Torpurley, "die lune px̄ ante festum Pasche anno", before John le Bruyn, Escheator of our Lord King, in the County of Chester, by virtue of the writ of our Lord, the King, to the same Escheator directed, for the proof of age of the said Adam &c., by the oaths of the jurors underwritten.

Will. de Bostok, de Huntyngton, "etatis 60 annor, primo juratus," and diligently examined upon the age of the said Adam, says on his oath, that the same Adam was 21 years of age "die Venis in prima septimana quadragesimo ultimo", and was born at Bostok and baptized in Davenham Church; also says that he, the deponent, took to wife one Alice Milneton, "die lune px̄ ante festum Purificacos be Marie Virginis px̄ ante nativitatem ipsius Ade et baptizacois sue et dies spons suor positus fuit in quod missale in ecctia p'dca", and so by the marriage aforesaid, and the inspection of the writing he well knows.

Robtus Waryhull, 55 years, and Thomas Batesson, 57 years, say likewise as to year, date and place of nativity and baptism; also say that they were with Ranulph de Maynwaryng at Davenham on the day of the baptism "ad diem amoris int' p'dtum Ranulphum et Jotrem de Carynton militem &c."

David de Bostok, 54, Galfridus Starky, 47, Nichas Brette, 60, Ranulphus de Bostok, say the same, also that at the feast of St. Gregory the Pope, next after the nativity of the said Adam, one Richard Hilmon, "fuit interfectus, apud Villam de Davenham accone cujusdam infortunij et ipi simul ad tunc extiterunt ibm coram coronatori &c."

XII. Adam de Bostok; Hugh, his brother; and Henry de Bostok respectively occur 8 Hen. VI. (1430), as remaindermen in tail of lands in Middlewich, the limitations of which would, however, fail to take effect. (Plea Rolls).

He appears to have been confined in Chester Castle, 11 Hen. VI. (1433), in which year, Jan. 14, he enters into a recognizance in £200 "not to depart out of the inner bailiwick of the Castle," and on Feb. 28, another recognizance occurs for his safe custody. On March 9th following, his writ de etate, on his petition for his livery, was issued, and livery was made Apr. 22, 12 Hen. VI. (1434).

A feud between him and his late guardian, John de Kyngsley, of Nantwich, broke out soon after; and he, Hugh de Bostok, of Hassall, and others were bound over on five distinct occasions, in one year, 12 Hen. VI. (1434), to keep the peace towards Kyngsley.

And in these preparations for harder warfare, he may be traced for many years. Thomas de Hyll and George de Wevere, also occur in the last named year, as persons with whom he had distinct feuds, the next being Alured de Radclyfe.

In the same year also, he, with Hugh de Bostok, Henry de Bostok, Randle de Bostok, of Bunbury, and others, were commissioners for the arrest of Henry de Merton and John Croxton.

Passing over the great number of various recognizances in which he constantly occurs, he is found, 21 Hen. VI. (1443), acquiring additional land, by purchase, apparently in Wyglonde.

But the hereditary feud with Vale Royal broke out afresh, 27 Hen. VI. (1449), when Adam de Bostok, (with his sureties, Hugh Venables, of Agdon, William de Holford, Esq., and others), was twice bound over in £100 on each occasion, to keep the peace towards Thomas, the Abbot.

With his sureties, Thomas Bostok, and Adam, son of David de Bostok, he further occurs in a recognizance to keep the peace in £200 30 Hen. VI. (1452).

As Adam de Bostok, Armiger, he is mentioned, with his sureties, Sir Thomas de Manley, and some of the Roters, later on in similar recognizances.

On the accession of Edward IV. (1461), his allegiance, and that of his son, seems to have been suspected, and both of them were bound to the new King, with sureties in £300 Aug., 2 Edw. IV. (1462).

He occurs the next year as collector of a subsidy for the Hundred and then abruptly disappears.

Inq. p. m. 15 Edw. IV. (1475).

Adam de Bostok held no lands in chief in his demesnes, as of fee, on the day of his decease, within the county, except certain lands in Occleston and Calveley.

"Obiit die Sabbe px̄ ante fm̄ Phī et Jacobi ult Radus Bostok jam supstes est filius et heres et etatis 30 annor."

It should be observed that, although it is possible, Adam de Bostok is written "Knight" in some of the charters, (as he is so given in the original pedigree), yet out of a number of enrollments he does not occur as such, and, making every allowance for the fact that these official documents down to about this period, except on certain occasions, do not invariably give even this title; it is improbable that he was ever Knighted.

At the same time, between 3 Edw. IV. (1463), and 15 Edw. IV. (1475), the date of his death, he may have received that honor, but his inquisition is silent on the subject. "Dominus" has probably been taken in some charters for Sir, instead of Lord.

His heir was Ralph Bostok, Esquire, who married in 35 Hen. VI. (1487), Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas de Dutton, Esq.

Ralph Bostok had one son, William Bostok, who died without issue, and upon his death, the Manor of Bostok, with all its lands, passed, in 1490, to Sir John Savage, in right of his wife, Anne, sister and heir of William Bostok.

STRATFORD VILLAGE, IN 1639.

THE FAMILY IN AMERICA.

1. Arthur Bostwick, (Bostock), the emigrant ancestor of the family, was baptized in Tarporley, in Cheshire County, England, Dec. 21, 1603.

Tarporley is a parish in the first division of the parish of Eddisbury and Nantwich Union. The market town of Tarporley being about 173 miles northwest from London, 10 miles east by south of Chester, 12 miles west-southwest from Middlewich, and is now situated two miles from the Beeston station on the London and Northwestern Rail Road.

*The dates of Arthur Bostock's departure from England and arrival in the New World have not, as yet, been ascertained. Searches have been made, which have covered all the available lists of passengers who came on the sailing ships of the time, but his name has not been found among them. This is a frequent occurrence, when emigrants wished to leave no record of their destination or whereabouts after fleeing from home.

There is also no positive knowledge of his first place of settlement in this country, but Samuel B. Orcutt, in his "History of Stratford, Ct.," names him as one of the first seventeen settlers in that town. He also gives a map of the town of Stratford, which was prepared from a careful study of the land records of the town, as laid out in 1639, and he shows Arthur Bostwick as occupying one of the original town lots or "home lottes", as they were called. Unfortunately the town records of Stratford were burned while being kept in one of the settlers' houses, and the book containing the records from 1639 to 1648 was destroyed. The record of events occurring during these years was re-written from memory, in about 1649, and much valuable information was omitted.

On the list of owners of land in "Ye Oulde Fielde", in Stratford, appears the name of Arthur Bosticke, as occupying "6 rods and 9 feete".

*Arthur Bostock's first wife was probably a daughter of Rev. Robert Whittel, rector of St. Helen's Church, in Tarporley, from 1613–1638. He was a pronounced Puritan and died in 1639.

At this time the persecution of the Puritans by Archbishop Laud was in full force, and no doubt this was the cause of Arthur Bostock's leaving England to seek, in the New World, that religious freedom which was denied to him at home.

This list was made out prior to 1651. The "Seconde Common Fielde" was laid out prior to the year 1648, since there is an extant deed of that date, showing that one Robert Rice owned land in it.

The "oulde fielde" was filled up long before this, and it was because the land in this field was all occupied, that the second field was laid out.

Arthur Bostick, or Bosticke, owned land in the "oulde fielde" as is shown by the land records, and the location of his "home lotte" shows that he was one of the first settlers in the town of Stratford, Ct., which was settled in 1639.

Now going over to Long Island, it is found that Arthur Bostock was, at one time, a resident of the town of Southampton, for the early records of that town disclose the following extracts :

May 29, 1643.

"Yt was ordered by ye General Court yt Richard Barrett, John Mulford, Arthur Bostock, Thomas Tomson and Robert Bond, shall each of them have twe acres of Land divided vnto themselves upon ye playne, * * * * * * * and Arthur Bostock's two acres to lye against Robert Bond's west and against Mr. Gosmer's eight acre Lott north."

March 7, 1644.

"Yt is ordered by ye present Court that yf by ye Prouidence of God there shall be henceforth within ye bounds of ys plantation, any whale or whales cast up, ffor the preuention of disorder yt is consented unto that there shall be foure wards in this towne, eleven persons in each ward, and by lott two of each ward, if any such whales shall be cast up, shall be employed for the cutting out of the sayd whales, who for their paynes shall have a double portion.

And every inhabitant, with his child or servant that is above sixteene years of age, shal have, in the diuision of the other part, an equal proportion, provided that such person, when yt falls into his ward, be a suffycient man to be employed about yt. And it is further agreed that there shall be in each ward eleven persons, * * * * * * * and the ones for the third ward Richard Gosmer, Arthur Bostock, Henry Pierson," &c., &c.

May 6, 1645.

"Whereas, Iosiah Stanborough, Richard Barrett, Arthur Bostock were appointed to laye out the eight and ten acre lotts upon ye great playne."

October 6, 1646.

"Arthur Bostock was censured by the Court of Magistrates for challenging Mr. Stanborough to fight with him and to pay for the offence unto ye town ten shillings."

No date given.

"——— Cooper and John Moore do acknowledge themselves to owe unto the body of this town, the summe of ten pounds to be levied of their goods and chattels, lands and tenements under this condition that Arthur Bostock do appear at ye next quarter court to be holden —— October, then to make his personal appearance."

Endorsed.

"Arthur Bostock made his appearance according to this recognizance."

Arthur Bostock's name does not appear in the list of freemen in Southampton on March 8, 1649, which shows that he had left that town prior to that date.

Now upon the strength of these researches, there is good reason to put forward two suppositions.

First: Did Arthur Bostock go from Southampton to Stratford for the first time and settle there.

Second: Did he go back to Stratford, having settled there some time before and having gone thence to Southampton. Southampton was settled about June, 1640, by a party of colonists from the main land, and it is possible that Arthur Bostock, being in Stratford, and hearing of this new expedition, decided to join it, or as his first appearance of record in Southampton was in 1643, he may have gone over later to the new settlement.

This latter supposition seems the more probable for the two records of Stratford show that some of the settlers in that town did go over to Southampton.

Mr. George R. Howell, in his "History of Southampton," on page 30, says: "During the next few years the settlement was further increased by the coming of Richard Barrett, John Bostwick and others, many of these, however, remained only a short time".

In 1680, John Boswick or Beswick, is mentioned as a brickmaker in Mecox, about four miles from Southampton, but his name does not appear on the tax list of 1683.

But laying aside the doubt as to where was the first home of Arthur Bostock, let us take up the narrative of his life from the place and date of which there is absolute record and that is at Stratford, Ct.

Arthur Bostock was married in St. Helen's Parish Church, in Tarporley, England, on January, 8, 16$\frac{11}{12}$, to Jane Whittel.

It is not known whether this wife came to America with him or not, but as there is no mention of her whatever, on any of the town records, she probably died in England. He married, as his second wife, Ellen Johnson, a widow, as appears from a synopsis of her will on the Stratford records, in which she mentions her son, ——— Johnson, then living in New Jersey.

It is possible that Arthur Bostock resided in New Jersey before coming to Stratford, and may have married her there, but the only foundation for such a supposition is the extract from Ellen's will.

Arthur Bostock had but one son, John, that there is any record of in Stratford. He had other children, born in England, as is shown by the records of St. Helen's Parish Church, at Tarporley, and undoubtedly some of them were brought to America with him, as he mentions his "other children", in the agreement between himself and his wife, but he does not mention their names.

About the year 1658, he appears to have had a controversy with his wife Ellen, in relation to their property, but there are no means of determining the exact nature of or the grounds for the difficulty.

The "Colonial Records of Connecticut," Vol. I, page 336 say: "That at the General Court of election in Hartford, May 20, 1659, the court ordered the Secretary to send an attachment to be served upon the estate of Arthur Bostock".

And, Oct. 6. 1659, (page 340):

"This court, having considered the petition in Behalf of Arthur Bostick, and what hath been been presented in behalf of his wife, according to ye desire and proposition of ye said Arthur, have appointed Mr. Blackman, Goodman Beardsley, Mr. Fairchild and Joseph Judson, as a committee to consider the state and condition of said Bostock and his wife and to order what they think suitable therein, and in case Bostick be dissatisfied with their act, then he is required to appear at ye next session of this court, to render the reason of his dissatisfaction with the act of the aforesaid committee. And the committee to make return at ye next session what their determination is about the premises. But in case Bostock rest satisfied with what is done by the committee, this court doth free the attachment that was formerly laid on the estate of ye said Bostock".

It is evident that a satisfactory arrangement was made, for on May 17, 1660, (page 351), it appears that "This court doth confirm and establish the act of the committee at Stratford, about Arthur Bostock's estate".

Being one of the first settlers in the town, he acquired considerable lands, which were added to, from time to time, as new divisions of the town lands were granted.

On the Stratford land records is found the following account of his holdings:

"The lands of Arthur Bostick recorded to him, his heirs and assigns, as followeth, with ye consent of Hellene, his wife.

Arthur Bostock and his wife, after a lapse of years, again commenced a dispute relative to the division of their property and finally made an agreement regarding the same which seems to have ended the controversy,

"Whereas Arthur Bostick and Hellene Bostick, both of Stratford, in ye county of ffayrfeild, in ye collony of Connecticott, for ye sufficient good considerations have formily come to an agreement to devide ye estate equally between y^ee all w^h appeares in an instrument ordered bearing date ye 25th of March, 1674. The exact date of Arthur Bostwick's death is not known, but he undoubtedly was living on December 10th, 1680, when at a town meeting, a division of land was made, and lot 77 was laid off to him. Ellen, his wife, died before this time and the following is found upon the records of Fairfield, Conn., which was the probate district of Stratford:

> ''An inventory taken by Thomas Tomlinson, of Stratford, of the estate of Ellen Bostock, the wife of Arthur Bostock, deceased ye 13th of May, 1677.''

There is no record of Arthur's having any children by his wife Ellen. His son John was by his first wife. Arthur, Ellen, and his children were undoubtedly buried at Stratford, but time has obliterated all marks which served to denote their last resting places.

He died in Stratford, Ct., prior to Dec. 11th, 1688, on which date a settlement of his estate was petitioned for by his widow.

He married, in Stratford, Ct., about 1665, Mary, daughter of John and Mary (Carter) Brinsmead.

She was born in Charlestown, Mass., July 24, 1640, and died in Stratford, Ct., before Dec. 28, 1704, on which date the inventory of her estate was taken by her son Zachariah, as found on the Fairfield, Ct., records, (Book 2, p. 34). After the death of John, she married John Reed.

*On the Boston Town Records is found the following entry: "Mary Bostwicke married Sept. 24, 1653, to George Dobson."

John Bostwick received from his father his entire estate, as noted in the agreement dated March 25th, 1674. He also acquired more land from the subsequent divisions of the town lands.

On Feb. 5, 16$\frac{7}{11}$, in the list of "lotts drawn for y^{e} swamp division," he was given lot 58.

In a list of "lotts drawn Dec. 6, 1672," he received lot 79 in meadow 9.

At a town meeting held Dec. 26, 1674, he drew lot 32, in a piece of land "formerly owned by the Indians".

In the new pasture field he had "6 rods of land".

On Dec. 10, 1680, at a division of land, "lott 87 was layd off to John Bostick," also, "John Bostick, of two miles division, hath twelve acres of land lying in ye new pasture, bee it more or less, bounded east wth ye land of Samuel Galpin, south wth ye land of Timothy Wilcoxson, west wth ye highway, north wth ye common land or highway, by verball information from ye surveyors y^{t} layd it out & recorded in their presence, this 10th day of Mch. 1682".

He did not keep his land inheritance intact, but disposed of several parcels of it, as is shown by the following:

"Mr. Joseph Hawley, by way of purchase from John Bostick, hath one acre & halfe & 16 rods of swamp land, bee it more or less, bounded north wth ye land of henery Weeklin, south upon John Wells, east wth another range of lotts, west wth a highway, for ye further confirmation the granter hath subscribed this 20th of September, 1678."

John Bostwick removed from Stratford, and went to Derby, Ct., where he remained but a short time.

In 1707, probably in the Autumn, he went to New Milford, Ct., where he was the second settler in the town. His first deed of land is dated Dec. 2, 1707, and speaks of him as "late of Derby".

Certain regulations were established in regard to the division of land among the settlers. In accordance with these rules, the "Town Plat," consisting of a "Town street" and sixteen "home lots," was laid out on Aspetuck Hill, (New Milford, Ct.).

These "home lots" were twenty one rods wide and sixty rods long, and were to be taken up in regular order as the settlers came to reside in the town, and John Noble took No. 1, on the east side of the street "at the south end of the hill".

John Bostick took No. 2, the first lot on the west side of the street.

The purchase of his first land is recorded as follows:

"This deed of sale, made this seconde day of December, in ye year of our Lord Christ, one thousand seven hundred and seven, witnesseth that Sam^ll Camp, Senr, of Milford, in ye county of New Haven, in ye Colony of Connecticott, Mason, for and in consideration of five pounds in current silver money of ye colony aforsd, the receipt of which I do hereby acknowledge and myself therewith fully satisfied, contented and paid and thereof and of every part and parcell y^reof, do acquit and discharge John Bostick, late of Derby, his heirs, exe^ors, ad^mrs, and assigns for ever, by these presents have given, granted, bargained, sold, aliened and confirmed and by these presents do hereby fully, freely, clearly and absolutely give, grant, bargain, sell, aliene and confirm unto ye sd John Bostick, his heirs, exe^ors, ad^mrs and assigns, all my right, title and interest that I have in and unto a parcell or tract of Land att New Milford, formerly called Wiantinoque, which ye Committee that the town of Milford aforesd impowered purchased of ye Indians, however hereafter it may be butted and bounded, all which aboves^d Right, Title and Interest the sd John Bostick is to have and to hold, together with all ye privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise thereunto appertaining to him, ye s^d John Bostick, his heirs, Exe^ors, Ad^mrs and assigns for ever to his and their only proper use, benefit, and behoof forever. 9. Joseph Bostwick[3], son of John and Mary (Brinsmead) Bostwick, was born in Stratford, Ct., May 11, 1672. He died in New Milford, Ct., prior to Apr. 8, 1726, on which date the inventory of his estate was made.

He married in Stratford, Ct., June 14, 1698, Ann Burr. (The record of this marriage on the Stratford records, is almost illegible and looks like Ann Bass, but is undoubtedly Burr, as there were families of that name there).

From his father's estate he received his share as follows:

"Joseph Bostick, as part of his portion out of ye estate of his father John Bostick, Dec^{d}, hath ye equall half of ye house lot, lyeing in ye north end of ye towne, the west end being by estimation about one acre and a half, little more or less, being bounded on ye north with ye land of John Hawley and Ebenezer Curtiss, and on the west wth sd Eben. Curtiss and common land, on the south with ye land of Joseph Curtiss, and on ye east with ye land of Zech. Bostick, being ye other half of sd lot.

Joseph Bostick, upon ye above acc^{t} hath the equall half of a parcell of land lyeing in ye new field by Peacock Bridge, on the west side of ye bridge, be it more or less, the south side of that lotment, there being by estimation about five acres and a quarter of land, and is bounded on the south and on the west with the highway, and on the east with a run of water, and on the north side with ye land of John Bostick, being the other half of sd lotment.

Joseph Bostick, upon ye above acc^{t} hath two acres of upland, lyeing in ye great neck, bee it more or less, it being ye equall half of fower acres purchased by his father John Bostick, of William Roberts, the south end, being bounded on ye south with the sea or sound, on ye north wth the other half of sd lot, and on the east and west as appears upon record to his father aforesaid.

Recorded this 8 day of Decemb. 1696, and confirmed to the sd Joseph Bostick and to his heirs and assigns forever by his mother, Mary Reed, as she is administratrix to the estate of her former husband John Bostick, Deceased, as witness by her hand the date above,

My body I leave to be buried in decent christian burial at the Discretion of my executors, not doubting but that at the General Resurrection, the same will be reunited to my Soul by the mighty power of God. And as touching such worldly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to Bless me in this life, I give and dispose of the same in the following manner and form, viz:

First: I will that all my just debts and funeral charges be fully paid.

Item. I give and bequeath to my well beloved wife, Hannah, the sole use & improvement of one Equal third part of my Real Estate, for and during the term of her natural life, that is to say, one acre of the best timber land which I own, lying on the west side of the Long Mountain and the remaining part of one third of my said Real Estate to be set off and improved by her out of that part of the homelot and buildings thereon standing, which I own, and out of the Cow pasture lot lying east of Simeon Baldwin's dwelling house. And I further give to my said wife as her own proper estate forever, viz : one good feather bed with a Bolster & two pillows, with three Coverlids, three pair of sheets & three pair of pillow cases and one good cow and six good sheep & also one old chest with one drawer in it ; all the above articles of personal Estate to be her own property for ever.

My further will is that my sd wife have & receive out of my personal estate in proper articles of house furniture and such as are necessary for keeping house, to the amount of Ten pounds lawful money, according to the valuation made and set on each of sd articles upon the Inventory of the same ; all of which articles, to the Amount of Ten pounds as aforesd, she is to use occupy and improve for so long a term as she shall remain my widow and no longer. But in case of her ceasing to be my widow by her marrying to another man, then sd Ten pounds worth of household furniture to be equally divided between my two sons, Daniel and Amos, and my two daughters, Esther and Annice, which said equal division of sd Ten pounds is to take place between my sd four children at the decease of my wife, provided she never marries to another man after my decease.

And all the Remainder of my personal Estate, after paying my just debts and Legacies herein mentioned, to be equally divided between my sd four children above named.

Item. I give and bequeath to my two Daughters, viz ; Esther, the wife of Benjamin Bostwick, Junr, and Annice, the wife of William Clark, in addition to what I have already given them, the sum of Ten pounds lawful money, to each of the sd Esther & Annice, to be paid to them or their heirs by my Executors within the term of one year after my decease.

Item. Taking into Consideration what I have already given to and Done for my two sons, viz : Daniel Bostwick, Junr, and Amos Bostwick, my further will is that my sd son Daniel, as an acknowledgment for his birthright, have and receive out of my Estate, Ten pounds lawful money, and that the whole remainder of my real estate be divided between my two sd sons, Daniel and Amos, and also the whole of my said wife's Dower, or thirds, in the Real Estate, be, at her Decease, equally divided between my two sd sons, Daniel and Amos, all which is to be and belong to them and their heirs forever.

And my further will is that if at my Decease, the Inventory of my personal Estate doth not amount to a sum sufficient to pay and satisfy all my just debts together with the several legacies heretofore given and bequeathed in this will, in that case I hereby authorize and Impower my Executors of this will, jointly to sell and Execute a deed or Deeds of so much of my Real Estate as shall be found necessary to pay and discharge all of my sd Debts & Legacies & costs of settling my estate as shall be found insufficient by the amount of my Inventoried personal Estate, and in case of the decease of either of my sd Executors, my will is that the surviving Execr, have the same power solely to sell and execute a deed or deeds of so much of my real estate as shall be found necessary for the purpose aforesd, which the remainder of my real estate is to be divided between my two sons as aforesd.

And my further will is that if at any time after the date of this present Will, I should sell & Convey, or by deed or Deeds, dispose of any part of the Estate, either real or personal, which I now own or possess, before the time of my decease, that notwithstanding such Disposal or alteration, this my last Will and Testament be and remain good and valid and that my just debts and Legacies heretofore mentioned be fully paid out of the Estate by me owned at the time of my decease and the remainder to be Divided as heretofore particularly mentioned.

Lastly I do make and appoint my two sons, Daniel Bostwick, Junr., and Amos Bostwick, Executors of this my last Will and Testament, Ratifying and Confirming this and this only as my last Will and Testament, in Testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal, the day and date above written.

In connection with the death of five of Reuben Bostwick's children within a few days, the following story is copied from a manuscript written by Electa, the eldest daughter.

"A few months before her death Lois was often found with her book in her hand reading and talking with Electa about dying. One day she said, 'I believe there will be sickness in our family, before long, and I believe that I shall be sick and shall die, and one of the family will die and be buried with me, but which of them I cannot tell'.

Electa asked, 'Will I be sick ?' She said, 'I believe you will, but I don't think you will die'. Then she said to Electa, 'How will it make you feel if I should die and Reuben, Ezra, Almon and Mabel ?'

Not long after this she related to Electa that she awoke in the night and 'lay awake some time, and heard a knocking at the chamber door. At first it knocked three times ; the second time twice. Then a light appeared in the chamber for a quarter of an hour, which exceeded daylight, and then vanished away'.

A night or two after this she related : 'I dreamed that a man came to me and taking my hand, led me into a dark room, exceeding all darkness I ever saw, then into another which appeared lighter, then into a third room which was very light, and the pleasantest I ever saw ; then he led me into a fourth room, which exceeded all the rest in brightness.

Then I was led up four steps which appeared to lead to a high mountain ; when we stopped the man said, 'Look down and see hell,' and I saw it, for it looked terrible, and I heard the dreadful crying of them that were there. While beholding this, I saw a man pitch headlong down into the lake of fire'.

Electa asked if she knew him. She said 'No, but I thought I had seen him in our meeting-house'. 'Then I was led along until I came to the gates of heaven, and I saw all the glory, exceeding all that I had ever seen, and I heard the singing, which exceeded all the music I ever heard. And I heard the words they sang, but I have forgotten them. Then I thought of Dada and Mama, and all of the family, and wished they were all with me. Then I asked the man if I might go into heaven. He said 'Not yet, but before long you may.' The man said, 'I shall let go of your hand and you will awake,' and I did, and was sorry to part with him for he was the pleasantest man I ever saw, and he talked with me all the time he led me by the hand. When I awoke out of sleep I could not help feeling of my hand with my other hand, and I thought it felt warm'. A little while after this, one evening, Lois desired to go with Electa to Mr. Platt's to see them. Electa was not willing to go, but Lois urged, saying she did not think she should ever go there again unless she went that evening, and she wished to see them once more. They went, and stayed about two hours at Mr. Platt's, and, on their way home, Lois said, 'I believe Almon and Mabel will be sick when we get home'. Electa asked her why she thought so, but she only replied, 'I don't like to tell you now.' When they reached home the two children were sick, and Lois said, 'Did I not tell you they would be sick?' Electa asked, 'What made you think so?' She replied, 'I almost knew they would be, and they certainly will die'.

The children Almon and Mabel were taken sick on the 2d day of January, 1777, and they both died on the 14th of the same month, at which time Electa, Lois, Reuben and Ezra were sick. Lois was asleep when Mabel died, and when she awoke Electa asked her if she knew Mabel was dead. She said, 'No, is she?' Electa said, 'Are you not sorry?' She replied, 'No, why should I be sorry, for they are better off than you or I, for they are both in heaven now, and I think it will not be long before I shall be with them.'

Almon and Mabel were both buried in one coffin.

Some time before these two little children were sick, they got up in the morning and told their mother that some one knocked on the bedroom door in the night four or five times.

Their mother told them it could not be for the doors were all fastened. They said it was somebody, and that, directly after, the room was as light as day. After this, while yet well, they said that if they should be sick, they would die.

When they were sick, and one died, the other asked to go with her, and did not want to live here.

Lois and Ezra died on the 18th of January, 1777, and Reuben on the 20th, two days later. Lois was in her eleventh year, Reuben in his eighth, Ezra in his seventh, Almon in his fourth, and Mabel in her second".

The place and date of his death are not known. The papers left by Judge David S. Boardman, of New Milford, say that he died at the home of his brother Gideon, at Great Barrington, Mass.

He married (1) Mary Huntington.

After his death, his father, with his brother Zadock, removed to Pennsylvania.

87. Gideon Bostwick[5], son of Nathaniel and Esther (Hitchcock) Bostwick, was born in New Milford, Ct., Sept. 21, 1742, and died there while visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, Sherman Boardman, June 13, 1793.

He married in Great Barrington, Mass., in 1766, Gesie, daughter of John and Elizabeth ( ) Burghart.

She was born in Kinderhook (?) N. Y., July 13, 1749, and died in Great Barrington, Mass., May 16, 1789.

He graduated from Yale College in 1762, and soon after graduation, was invited to take charge of a classical school in Great Barrington, Mass., which was supported by private subscriptions. By his acceptance of this invitation, his future residence was determined.

Though a congregationalist by birth and training, he had become an episcopalian while in college, and as early as 1764 he is spoken of as a lay reader in the episcopal church just previously erected in Great Barrington.

On Nov. 7, 1769, he went to England, and was ordained a Deacon by the Right Reverend Richard Terrick, Bishop of London, on Feb. 24, 1770, in the Chapel Royal, at St. James Palace, Westminster. He soon returned to his home and became a missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, and was placed in charge of the church (St. James) in Great Barrington.

The record of his labors began with June 17, 1770, when he held service at Nobletown, now Hillsdale, N. Y., and baptized a large number of children and presided at a choice of church wardens. For twenty-three years he served as minister of St. James' Parish, and also had charge of St. Luke's church in Lanesborough, more than twenty miles to the south, and of two or three congregations across the New York border line. During this entire period his occasional ministrations extended over a much wider circuit in Massachusetts, Vermont and New York.

In the town of Great Barrington, and the various places which he visited during his ministry, he is reputed to have baptized 81 adults, 2,274 children, and to have joined in marriage 127 couples and to have attended upon the burials of 84 persons.

At the time of the Revolution he adhered to the royal cause, and after peace came, he acted with the clergy of his native state, in their efforts to obtain a bishop.

He preached for the last time on June 2, 1793, and, on the 4th of the month, he attended the annual Diocesan convention, at Middletown, Ct., to present for ordination a candidate who should relieve him of the care of the parish in Lanesborough. Thence he went to the home of his brother-in-law, in his native village, for a visit, but was seized with a violent attack of pneumonia, which resulted in his death.

His residence in Great Barrington was, for the greater part of the time, in the brick house south of the Pixley Brook, on the road to Stockbridge.

The salary paid him was always small, and in 1771, it is found to be £20, but he had other means of support from the parent society in England.

So much was he beloved in Great Barrington, that his early death was accounted almost an irreparable loss, and soon after his death, plans were made to publish a volume of his sermons, with a sketch of his life, but they were never carried into effect.

A few moments before he died he had the following conversation with a friend who attended him:

"Do you think your case critical?"

"Yes, I know it is critical".

"Is your mind calm and have you any fearful apprehensions?"

"No, no, I have not; I am calm, I feel perfectly serene and unruffled. I rest in the assurance of my merciful Father. I have no fault to find, far be it from me that I should murmur or complain. But I do not say I should not wish to live; were it His pleasure, I should be glad to live about three years longer. But I await my deliverance, which is at hand".

"Have you no anxiety about your family?"

"I leave them in the hand of the same kind Providence who has ever protected them, and doubt not but they will be provided for".

Inscription from the tombstone of the Rev. Gideon Bostwick, at Great Barrington, Mass. :

"The sculptured stone in vain essays
Thy worth, Dear Bostwick, to impart.
An epitaph of nobler praise
Is written on the feeling heart.
Yet, Oh ! accept this marble's aid,
Thy virtue's memory to save,
For soon that record must be laid
Beside thee, in the silent grave".

92. Isaac Bostwick[5], son of Lemuel and Anna (Jackson) Bostwick, was born in New Milford, Ct., Sept. 6, 1730, and died in Hinesburgh, Vt., Apr. 21, 1808.

He married in New Milford, Ct., Nov. 27, 1754, Prudence, daughter of John and Mary (Curtis) Warner.

She was born in New Milford, Ct., Dec. 3, 1733, and died in Hinesburgh, Vt., Oct. 4, 1801.

He was appointed Ensign in the Second or "South End" Company of militia in New Milford, Ct., in May, 1769, and Captain in 1770.

This Company was the first to leave New Milford in the War of the Revolution, and became the 7th Company, of the 7th Conn. Regiment, Col. Charles Webb, and Isaac Bostwick was commissioned as Captain, July 6, 1775.

This regiment was raised by order of Assembly and was recruited in Fairfield, Litchfield and New Haven counties. The companies were stationed along the Sound until Sept. 14, 1775, when, on requisition from General Washington, the regiment was ordered to the Boston camps. There it was assigned to Gen. Sullivan's brigade, on Winter Hill, on the left of the besieging line, and remained until the expiration of its term of service in Dec., 1775.

It was reorganized as the 19th Continental infantry, under Col. Charles Webb, and on leaving Boston, it marched under Gen. Washington to New York, by way of New London and on vessels through the Sound, and served in that vicinity from April to the close of the year.

The regiment assisted in fortifying New York City, and was ordered to the Brooklyn front on Aug. 27, 1776, but was not engaged in the battle of Long Island. It was closely engaged in the battles of White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776, and Trenton, Dec. 25, 1776. At Trenton, Captain Bostwick was one of the advance guard who crossed the Delaware river on Christmas night, 1776. The regiment was also engaged in the battle of Princeton, Jan. 3, 1777. Captain Bostwick was discharged Dec. 31, 1776. He also served as Captain of a company at the "Danbury Alarm", in April, 1777.

After, if not before the Revolution, he became a part owner in some mill property at Lanesville, on the Great Falls, and was for a number of years a very influential man in the town.

He was town Treasurer and State collector of taxes in New Milford, in which office he became involved, either by the delays occasioned by the great difficulties in the way of collecting taxes; the depreciation of money; or by the improper use of the money; or by neglect to collect certain rate bills within the specified time, (and there is considerable evidence that this last was the true difficulty), so that in the year 1788 he was found a defaulter for the sum of £796, 14s, 6d.

He immediately surrendered his property to meet these demands, and the committee appointed by the town to settle the matter, said in their report:

"And having by the free consent of said Captain Bostwick, fully examined and inspected his rate bills and papers, we find due upon said bills, as they now stand, as follows:

In hard money, including interest,	£22,	12s.	11d.
In certificates, including interest, 146£, 12s, 4d, which being reduced to hard money (half loss),	73	6	2
In orders, including interest, 55£, 16s, 10d, reduced to hard money,	14	00	00
In States money, including interest, 48£, 19s, 8d, reduced to hard money,	12	5	00
Whole sum due on said bills,	122	4	1
Deducted for uncollectible bills (Too bad !)	46	18	11
Whole sum due on bills & collectible,	75	5	2
Still to be abated on the bills (What for ?)	20	00	00
Due on the bills,	55	5	2
Here it may be seen that the bills as he received them amounted to	251	8	10
And all the credit he received for these amounted to	55	5	2
A loss of	196	3	2

To meet the deficiency we have received by quit claim deed, eighty-five acres of land mortgaged to said former committee and five acres adjoining thereto, the whole at,	390	15	9
Also by warrantee deed, 51 acres near his home, at	204	00	00
Also by warrantee deed, 100 acres in Hinesburgh, Vt.,	30	00	00
Also his fees on the several taxes unsettled, reduced to hard money (more loss),	20	3	11
Also two yoke of oxen, at	24	00	00
" two cows (in room of depreciated money) at	7	10	00
" two two year old heifers, at	3	10	00
" two calves, at	1	16	00
" in certificates, 1s, and state money orders, reduced to hard money (rather hard),	6	00	00
" in notes & executions,	57	8	10
" by an allowance to him for two counterfeit orders, unavoidably lost, as we judge,	5	10	00
" his own note for hard money,	10	00	00
" his other note for 72£, certificates reduced to hard money,	36	00	00
	796	14	6

In addition to the above Captain Bostwick gives a bond for 100£, to supply any loss, if such should occur, in the sale of the land deed to the town".

Will of Jonathan Bostwick.

State of South Carolina, }
Williamsburg District. }

In the name of God, Amen.

I, Jonathan Bostwick, of the State and district aforesd, Planter, have with my own hand wrote this instrument of writing, designed to be my last will and Testament, while I retain my full powers of Reflection, and first it is my will and desire, if convenient and practable, that my body, after my decease, be buried in my own bural ground as near the remains of my late wife Margret Bostwick, as practable, but at the discretion of my executors to be hereafter named.

I do therefore require my executors to pay all my just debts as soon as possible can be done, and in particular one hundred dollars to my son Rob[t] Bostwick ; likewise I should wish my library of books to be sold at public auction, except my family Bible, which I give to my son Henry H. Bostwick, together with my watch, which I wish him to keep as a token of my love.

Likewise I should wish my carpenter's tools and all the most useless of the plantation tools, Househould and kitchen furniture, together with what of my stock can be best spared, at the discretion of my executors, and it is my wish that the plantation may be kept up and that my children should find a home there, untill a generall divide shall take place, which I could wish might be protracted until my younger children finish their education, which is left at the discretion of my executors.

I likewise desire that each one of my children retain and keep the cattle now in their marks or is acknowledged to belong to them by the other heirs, and as some years ago, I gave to my son Henry H. Bostwick, a tract of land called the Wolfpit tract, containing 100 acres and made him title to same, and as I purchased a tract of land of W[m] Scarff, joining his home tract, I wish the said Henry to give up the Wolfpit tract to the estate and in lieu of that I give him the Scarff tract, if he agrees, or otherwise the Scarff tract to be considered as part of my real estate and to be divided among my children, share and share alike, and moreover I allow my Executors, at a proper age, to put my sons Jefferson and I. Dayton Bostwick to trade if practable and I farther authorize my executors to sell and dispose of any part or all of my real estate, if it can be done with advantage to the other children and in all things to act to the benefit of the family, and at the devising and final settlement of my estate, I will and desire all my children, both in real and personal property, to share and share alike, but in case one of my children should die or leave no heirs of their body, lawfully begotten, that then in that case the part that should have fallen to them shall return to the surviving heirs of my Estate.

And I further give to my son, Robert Bostwick, my Baley Dictionary, as a pledge of my effection and to my son William M. Bostwick, my rifle gun and my silver mounted sword as a token of my love and the rest of my estate both real and personal, I would wish to be disposed of to the best advantage at the discretion of my executors. And I do hereby constitute and appoint my sons Henry H. Bostwick, Robert Bostwick and William M. Bostwick, my only and sole executors of this my last Will and Testament, hereby revoking and disannulling all and every will by me made, declaring this and no other to be my last Will and Testament, in witness whereof I have signed my name and affixed my seal, this 26th October 1814.

302. Elisha Bostwick[6], son of Samuel and Anne (Fiske) Bostwick, was born in New Milford, Ct., Dec. 17, 1748, and died there Dec. 1, 1834.

He married in New Milford, Ct., May 14, 1786, Betty, daughter of David and Abigail (Comstock) Ferris.

She was born in New Milford, Ct., May 25, 1768, and died there July 13, 1834.

In the War of the Revolution he enlisted as Sergeant, in Capt. Isaac Bostwick's company, in the 7th regiment, Conn. line, Col. Charles Webb, July 12, 1775, and was discharged Dec. 21, 1775, (see No. 92).

He also served as Lieutenant in the 8th company, 13th regiment, Conn. militia, in May, 1777, and rose to be Colonel in the militia forces of the State.

He was for fifty-five years town clerk of New Milford, during which time he filled with his quill pens, twenty-one volumes of land records, and wrote an index of grantees, in a separate book, for the first twelve volumes of land records, and also an index of both grantees and grantors, for each of the first thirty-five volumes of land records. He also planned and wrote an index of all the highways in the town that were made before his resignation, which was of great value.

For these services he received at various times certain considerations of value from the town and also from individuals. His allowance for recording a deed was one shilling, and, in the absence of ready money he received a due bill for this amount.

After his decease something like one thousand of these bills, it is said, were found unpaid.

He was justice of the peace for many years, and in the period of twenty years service, the number of marriages he officiated at was ninety-two.

When in his twentieth year, he heard that a daughter was born to David Ferris, who resided across the river, and he went over and called to see the baby. While looking at it in the cradle, he said to the mother, "It is a very nice baby ; keep her until she is grown up and I will marry her". "All right", said the mother, "you shall have her". And so when he had been through the War of the Revo lution and was securely settled in his home, they were married.

Col. Bostwick was a fine appearing man, religious and noble in his character, and a man in whom all the people of the town took much honor and delight, and when, after fifty-five years of service as town clerk, he declined a further election, there was a most affecting scene at the town meeting.

He wrote his letter of resignation and placed it in the hands of Judge D. S. Boardman, a life long friend, to read in the meeting. This letter Judge Boardman began to read, but was so overcome with emotion, that he handed it to the clerk of the meeting, took his seat and with great effort restrained a further expression of the pathetic feelings which were induced by a sense of the final separation between the town and a long tried and faithful servant.

The letter was as follows :

"To the inhabitants of the town of New Milford, in annual town meeting this day assembled.

Gentlemen :

The time, I think, has now arrived, which in course of Divine Providence renders it proper that some other person should be appointed to the office of town-clerk, the failure of my eyesight compels me to make this statement.

I am now in the 84th year of my age. You, gentlemen, and your venerable fathers (now no more) having appointed me to that office for 55 years in succession, and I have in that time filled 21 volumes of land records, and now borne down as I am with old age, and with afflictions and sorrows, I deem it my duty to decline a further appointment.

And now, alas ! Where shall I find words to express my gratitude and thankfulness to the Town for all their past favors, and above all, to my God, for all his mercies, so that my present feelings and the tender emotions of my mind are such that I lose the power of utterance.

I add no more and must close abruptly.

ELISHA BOSTWICK.

New Milford, 1st Monday of October, 1832.

Upon the presentation of this letter, the town meeting caused the following record to be made :

"At an annual town meeting of the inhabitants of the town of New Milford, legally warned and held at the Town House, in said New Milford, on the 1st Monday of October, 1832, Nathaniel Perry, chosen moderator, Oliver W. Pickett, Clerk pro tem.

Voted, that the thanks of the Town be presented to Col. Elisha Bostwick for his long and faithful services in the office of town clerk and that his communication, this day made to the town meeting, declining a reappointment, be recorded upon the record book of the Town".

Colonel Bostwick was representative from the town of New Milford to the Assembly fourteen sessions. He was surveyor of lands and did so much service in that capacity, that he was familiar with the boundaries of nearly every farm and locality of the town.

At the time the new Congregational meeting-house was just opened (1833) for worship where it now stands, and on the morning that the old meeting-house was to be torn down, Col. Bostwick went into the old house, took his usual seat, looked around on the seats where his kindred and neighbors had sat for worship during eighty years of his own memory, then rising, with the hymn-book in his hands, he sang a hymn, knelt and offered the last prayer in the old house, then arose and departed in peace to his own home.

She was born in Maryland, N. Y., Mar. 29, 1785, and died in Schenevus, N. Y., Mar. 17, 1864.

Gershom Bostwick left his native town when a young man and located in Otsego Co., N. Y. He built a house and shop on the south side of the Schenevus Creek, and on the west side of the road running south from the present line of railroad, in the town of Schenevus.

Probably this country has never produced a man of more mechanical skill and inventive genius. He convinced his father-in-law that a grist mill would be a good investment, and, in 1811, the mill was built.

He and Joseph Crouch opened a wheelwright and paint shop, also a shop for "wooding" cast iron ploughs.

At an early day, he made and put into use a wool carding machine for himself, and afterwards he built machinery and commenced fulling and dressing cloth, near his machine shop.

He invented, patented and applied the first threshing machine, also the first cylinder-and-spike cider mill. He also invented a machine for fluting and corrugating boards for wash-boards, of suitable width, any length, at one operation. A machine for turning spokes for carriage wheels, a machine for making shoe pegs and one for turning shoe lasts, were also all of his invention.

He, together with Bradford Rowe, invented and patented an endless screw horse power, of so great power, that it was difficult to make it strong enough to sustain it or prevent its breaking.

Many other improvements that have benefitted mankind, were due to his fertile brain, but, like thousands of others, he received but little pecuniary reward for his labors.

In his old age his beloved shop, machinery and tools, were swept away by floods, a great damage and loss to the surrounding community. ("History of Schenevus, N. Y.")

On April 15, 1825, he was admitted to the order of Deacons at New Brunswick, N. J., by the Bishop of New Jersey. His first field of labor was in the counties of Yates and Steuben, N. Y. From the town of Bath, as a centre, he extended his services over a district of country fifty miles in diameter, officiating at Penn Yan, Wayne, Tyrone, Hopeton, Pleasant Valley, Painted Post, Prattstown, Jerusalem, Dresden and Bologna.

---

*Mary Jones was the daughter of Isaac Jones, a direct descendant of William Jones, Deputy Governor of New Haven Colony, and son of Col. John Jones, one of the Regicide Judges, and Henrietta, sister of Oliver Cromwell.

Early in 1827, his labors were extended into Alleghany County, and in the early part of the following year he made missionary visits to Olean and Ellicottville, in Cattaraugus County.

In 1829 he removed to Hammondsport, N. Y., and gave up his church at Bath, continuing his labors in Wayne, Hornellsville and other villages.

In the summer of 1842, his attention was drawn to the west as an important field for missionary work and he made a journey of exploration. In the autumn of that year he removed, with his family, to Illinois, and took charge of the congregation at Joliet. There he continued to labor in his accustomed field, and performed much missionary work in addition to his stated services at Joliet, until his death. He was not a brilliant scholar nor a popular preacher, but he had the elements of a useful clergyman ; studious, diligent, devout, and gave himself to the work of his calling.
